OLD SURVIVOR

CELEBRATING OAKLAND'S REDWOODS

Our new documentary film project will highlight “Old Survivor”, the East Bay’s only remaining old-growth redwood, and tell the story of the Oakland's resilient, ecologically-amazing, and now-protected redwood forest.

Featuring stories from Save the Redwoods League, City of Oakland Parks, and the East Bay Regional Park District, the film will promote outdoor recreation and open space networks, encourage stewardship, celebrate local history, and educate the viewer about forest ecology, connecting people to the redwoods in their own backyard.

Oakland Trails is working with filmmaker Emily Fraser, who co-produced our previous film, Trailhead (2015). Runtime is anticipated to be 20 minutes.

The World Premiere will be a free event, and will simultaneously serve as Save the Redwood League’s Centennial Celebration in Oakland. Anticipated to be held at the Chabot Space & Science Center’s Megadome Theater on the evening of Tuesday, October 9, 2018, partners and community groups will be invited to table at the reception in the rotunda outside the theater. We expect 1,200+ attendees over the course of the evening.
